

Higher Education (Freedom of Speech) Act 2023

2023 CHAPTER 16

Duties to protect freedom of speech

PROSPECTIVE

4 Civil claims

After section A6 of the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 (inserted by section 3) insert—

“Civil proceedings

A7 Civil claims for breach of duty

- (1) A person may bring civil proceedings against—
 - (a) a registered higher education provider, in respect of a breach by the governing body of the provider of any of its duties under section A1 that causes the person to sustain loss,
 - (b) a constituent institution of a registered higher education provider, in respect of a breach by the governing body of the institution of any of its duties under section A1 that causes the person to sustain loss, or
 - (c) a students’ union, in respect of a breach by it of any of its duties under section A5 that causes the person to sustain loss.
- (2) In subsection (1), “loss” means loss of any kind (pecuniary or non-pecuniary).
- (3) A person may bring proceedings under subsection (1) only if—
 - (a) the person has brought a complaint relating to the same subject-matter as the proceedings under a relevant complaints scheme, and

Status: This version of this provision is prospective.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Higher Education (Freedom of Speech) Act 2023, Section 4. (See end of Document for details)

- (b) a decision has been made under that scheme as to the extent to which the complaint was justified.
- (4) Each of the following is a “relevant complaints scheme”—
- (a) the scheme provided by virtue of Schedule 6A (the free speech complaints scheme), and
 - (b) the scheme for the review of qualifying complaints (within the meaning of section 12 of the Higher Education Act 2004) that is provided by the designated operator (within the meaning of section 13(5)(b) of that Act).
- (5) Subsection (3) does not apply where the civil proceedings under subsection (1) are for an injunction only.”

Commencement Information

II S. 4 not in force at Royal Assent, see s. 13(3)

Status:

This version of this provision is prospective.

Changes to legislation:

There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Higher Education (Freedom of Speech) Act 2023, Section 4.