written representations or following a hearing or public local inquiry. These initial procedures require the person bringing the appeal ("the appellant"), and the person whose decision has given rise to the appeal ("the respondent"), to provide specified information to the National Assembly and require the publication of notices in the local press, and the sending of notices to persons and specified organisations who have an interest in such appeals, giving information relating to the appeal.

Part III (regulations 7 to 9) provides the procedures to be followed where a party to an appeal has chosen to have the appeal determined through an exchange of written representations. The main parties to the appeal are required to exchange evidence before the person appointed by the National Assembly to determine the appeal will make the decision and notify the persons specified in regulation 9 of that decision.

Part IV (regulations 10 to 16) provides the procedures to be followed where a party to an appeal has chosen for the appeal to be determined following a hearing. Part V (regulations 17 to 28) provides the procedures to be followed where a party to an appeal has chosen for the appeal to be determined following a public local inquiry. Where an inquiry is to be held, the Regulations provide for a pre-inquiry meeting to be held if the main inquiry is either expected to last for 8 days or more or a pre-inquiry meeting is nevertheless considered necessary. The main parties to the appeal are required to exchange statements of case and other interested persons may also submit representations to the National Assembly. The Regulations require the person appointed by the National Assembly to hold the inquiry to arrange a timetable for the inquiry and require notice of the date, time and place of the inquiry to be publicised. The Regulations specify the persons entitled to attend, and take part, at an inquiry and set out other procedural issues relating to the conduct of an inquiry.
