Use of electronic communication

3.—(1) Any requirement imposed under these Regulations as to the giving or sending by one person to another of a notice or other document may be met by means of an electronic communication if the—

- (a) use of such a communication results in the information contained in that notice or document being available to the other person in all material respects as it would appear in a notice or document given or sent in printed form; and
- (b) other person has consented to the information being received by such means.

(2) Where, under paragraph (1), an electronic communication is used for the purposes of giving or sending a notice or document, any requirement for—

- (a) the notice or document to be given or sent by a particular time will be met in respect of an electronic communication only if the conditions mentioned in paragraph (1) are met by that time; and

(3) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(a), “in all material respects” means in all respects material to an exact reproduction of the content of the information as it would appear in a notice given or sent in printed form.

Manner in, and period within, which an appeal is to be brought

4.—(1) Subject to paragraph (4), an appeal to the National Assembly under section 38(1) of the Act (appeals against notices under section 36(3) or 37(1) of the Act concerning works with respect to means of access) may only be brought if notice is given to the National Assembly by sending or delivering a—

- (a) completed appeal form to the National Assembly before the end of the appeal period; and
- (b) copy of that completed appeal form to the access authority at the same time as that notice is sent or delivered to the National Assembly under sub-paragraph (a).

(3) Where an appeal is brought against a notice given under section 37(1) of the Act, the appeal period is the period specified in that notice after which the access authority intends to carry out the works specified in that notice.

(4) If a person who wishes to bring an appeal sends or delivers to the National Assembly written notice of that wish so that it is received by the National Assembly before the end of the appeal period, then, provided that person sends or delivers to the National Assembly a completed appeal form within such further period as the National Assembly may, in writing, require, that appeal form is to be treated as if it had been received before the end of the appeal period.

(5) An appeal form may be completed in either the English language or the Welsh language, but, if the appellant wishes the appeal to be dealt with in whole or in part through the medium of a language other than that in which the appeal form has been completed, the appeal form should contain, or be accompanied by, a request to that effect.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

Part I (sections 1 to 46) of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 (“the Act”) makes provision for access to the countryside.

Section 35 of the Act relates to agreements between access authorities and owners and occupiers of land with respect to the means of access to land over which there is a public right of access under section 2 of the Act (“access land”).

Section 36(3) of the Act provides that, if an owner or occupier fails to observe any restriction in an agreement under section 35 of the Act, the access authority may give to the person with whom it has entered into the agreement notice to carry out works to remedy the breach of the restriction.

Section 37 of the Act enables an access authority to carry out works to provide means of access to access land where the authority is satisfied that it is unable to conclude on reasonable terms an agreement under section 35 of the Act. Before carrying out those works, the access authority must, under section 37(1) of the Act, give notice to all owners and occupiers that the authority intends to carry out the works specified in the notice.

Section 38(1) of the Act gives the owner and occupier the right to appeal against a notice under section 36(3) or 37(1) and these Regulations make provision for the initial stages of such an appeal.

Regulation 3 enables the initial stages of an appeal to be dealt with by electronic means.

Regulation 4 sets out the manner in, and specifies the period of time within, which an appeal under section 38(1) must be brought.

Regulations 5 to 16 make the necessary amendments to the Countryside Access (Appeals Procedures) (Wales) Regulations 2002 (S.I. 2002/1794) (W.169), to—

- (a) enable those Regulations to apply to an appeal brought under section 38(1) of the Act in addition to other appeals brought under Part I of the Act; and
- (b) clarify the existing notice requirements in regulation 6(2) of those Regulations.
